The illustration is a Halloween-themed cartoon. At the top, a row of jack-o'-lanterns with smiling faces is set against a pink background. The main scene is a dark, spooky room at night. A boy with dark hair and a worried expression is tucked under a purple blanket in a bed, peeking out. A glowing jack-o'-lantern with a menacing, jagged mouth hangs from a branch above him. To the left, a blue, translucent ghost with large orange eyes and long, flowing tentacles is reaching towards the bed. A small black cat is perched on the floor near the bed's base. In the background, a window shows a dark, silhouetted landscape. A speech bubble from the boy in the foreground asks, 'DO YOU HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO KEEP YOUR CALM WHEN THE NIGHT COMES?'.
